Preventing spitting or casting of buds ("loose buds").

Some varieties may "spit out" or drop flower buds. These "loose buds" are developed while the bulbs are in the plunging bed. To avoid them:

- a) Do not plant too early.
- b) Check the drainage in the plunging bed. Make sure bulbs are not getting too much water.
- c) Do not let the temperature in the plunging bed get much higher than 48° F. especially about 6 to 8 weeks after planting bulbs.

If the weather is cold at the time when the pots are transferred from the plunging bed to the greenhouse, the transferring should then be done very quickly.

Darwin Tulips

"HIGHLIGHTS OF THE GARDEN"

No other Tulips equal the Darwin Tulips in splendor and usefulness for various purposes.

Introduced into Holland some seventy years ago, Darwin Tulips soon found their way into gardens all over the world and were eagerly accepted by the floristrade. Demand increases from year to year. Since their introduction, many beautiful new varieties have been developed and were received with enthusiasm by the public, but some of the first introduced varieties, such as Clara Butt, Farncombe Sanders, La Tulipe Noire, Pride of Haarlem and others still rank high among the popular varieties.

Blooming in May, carried on strong, erect stems, the Darwin Tulips with their stately beauty and gorgeous colors, red, pink, lavender, purple, black, yellow and white are ideal for all garden purposes and excellent for cutflowers. Many varieties can also be successfully forced for cutting and in pots and pans. Some for Valentine Day and others for Easter pots.

When planted under so called "cold glass" in good soil, and thus coming into bloom protected from bad weather, Darwin Tulips will produce a rich crop of clean strong flowers before the bulbs grown outside are in bloom.

Parrot Tulips

The ever increasing demand for these Tulips clearly shows the growing appreciation for the remarkable beauty of the Parrot Tulips with their elegant lacinated flowers.

They bloom in May.

On account of their large, heavy flowers Parrot Tulips are not recommended for planting in beds. In groups and in borders, they are very effective. Excellent for cutflowers. Placed in shallow bowls or dishes when cut, they make a very artistic effect on tables.

The following kinds will be found of special merit: Tulip species: Chrysantha, Eichlerii, Fosteriana Red Emperor, Kaufmanniana varieties, Praestans Fusilier, further: Miscellaneous Bulbs such as Crocus, Muscari (Grape Hyacinths), Eranthis (Winter Aconite), Galanthus (Snowdrops), Chionodoxa (Glory of the Snow), Fritillaria meleagris (Guinea Hen-flower), Scilla sibirica and also the later flowering Scilla campanulata varieties (Woodland-Hyacinths).

Diclytra (Dicentra) Spectabilis

Gladioli

are very attractive as cutflowers and also useful for the garden.

GLADIOLUS

Flowering period:

1 = early, 2 = medium, 3 = late

We believe there is no other class of bulbs in which so many new and beautiful varieties have been developed as in Gladiolus.

The following collection is of outstanding value in which all colors of the rainbow are represented.

No wonder the demand for Gladiolus increases from year to year.

Ideal for cutflowers and growing in almost any soil with little care, they are of great value also for gardening purposes and when planted at intervals from Spring till June, Gladiolus offer the gardener a crop of cutflowers all through the summer until the frost sets in.
